

Stock Investment Portfolio Report for John Doe

Portfolio Holdings

ID	Security Name	Market Value (USD)	Y2Y %	Industry Sector
1	S&P 500	8500000	15	Index Fund
2	MSCI AC World	6000000	12	Index Fund
3	TOPIX	4200000	13	Index Fund
4	MSCI AP ex-Japan	5700000	9	Index Fund
5	STOXX 600	3500000	5	Index Fund
6	MSCI EM	2800000	3	Index Fund

Market and News Summary

The content provides stock market updates for various indices as of July 2026. The S&P 500, a major U.S. index, was up slightly to 7,557.70. The MSCI AC World Index and MSCI EM Index showed different performance levels, with MSCI AC World Index down 0.80% and MSCI EM Index up 2.22%. Regional indices like the TOPIX in Japan and the STOXX 600 in Europe also saw modest gains. Emerging markets and specific sectors like chip stocks were highlighted in news articles, reflecting mixed market sentiments. Overall, the indices displayed varied performance, influenced by global economic factors and regional economic trends.

Goldman Sachs Report Insights

Key Points

- The US equity market accounts for around 70% of the MSCI AC World Index
- The biggest 10 US stocks account for over 20% of the entire value of the global index
- The MSCI world index is up nearly 40% in price terms alone since October 2023
- The S&P 500 has had one of its strongest performances since 1928
- The Nasdaq has climbed over 50% since October 2023

Disclosures

1. Article 6 (2) of the European Commission Delegated Regulation (EU) (2016/958): related to the European Union and United Kingdom
2. Company-specific regulatory disclosures: includes information about manager/co-manager, 1% or other ownership, compensation, client relationships, public offerings, and directorships
3. Trading activities: Goldman Sachs trades or may trade as a market maker and/or specialist for equity securities
4. Restrictions on use of information: cannot be resold, reverse-engineered, or used to create any index, derivative works, or commercial products without express written consent of Goldman Sachs